

Call for Participants

Past2Present4Future ("P2P4F") is a youth remembrance activism initiative of four partner organizations from Serbia, Germany, Bosnia-Herzegovina and Croatia. Its goal is to engage thirty-two young people from these countries in year-long activities focusing on remembrance and exploration of historical-contemporary dilemmas, focusing in specific on World War II and the lingering legacy of National Socialist crimes in Europe. Some of the questions and topics that we will be dealing with are: Why/is learning about history important/relevant for young people? Why are historical events still the cause of current (political) grievances and polarization in society? What are some different ways of remembrance, narratives and approaches to dealing with the past in different parts of Europe? P2P4F will be filled with discussions, interactive workshops, field trips and visits to different memorial sites, as well as with ample opportunities for everyone to contribute their ideas, dilemmas and reflections on these topics.

Depending on the developments in managing the COVID-19 pandemic, the goal is for the selected participants to meet two times for a week-long seminar - once in Zagreb, Croatia (in May, 2021), and the second time in Belgrade, Serbia (in October, 2021). In between the two sessions, P2P4F participants will engage in group activities and teamwork online.
